Doolittle Shatters Hawks' Trans-Continental Mark

BLEVINS PLACES THIRD IN RACE INTO CLEVELAND

Major Wins Burbank-to-Cleveland Dash Then Goes on to Newark To Set New Mark of 11 Hours, 15 Minutes.

HAWKS' TIME CUT MORE THAN HOUR

Former Army Man's Speed Is Worth $10,000 to Him, While Atlanta Takes $3,000.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Streaming through the air at an average speed of 225 miles an hour Major James H. Doolittle yesterday broke the trans-continental speed record by 1 hour 10 minutes and 3 seconds. He also beat seven other fliers into Cleveland, Ohio, from Burbank, Cal., to win the Bendix air trophy award.

Beeler Blevins, Atlanta, Ga., pilot, was close on the heels of Doolittle on the Burbank-Cleveland flight, landing his plane in Cleveland a few minutes behind one other competitor who followed Doolittle onto the field. Blevins won $3,000, while Doolittle took down $7,500 and Harold H. Johnson, of Chicago, who finished second, was awarded $4,500.

Doolittle further enriched himself by continuing on to Newark and the extra $2,500 for the trans-continental record.

Captain Ira Eaker, of Washington, finished fourth in the Burbank-Cleveland race. Art Goebel was fifth and James Hall, of New York, was the last to finish. Others were not so fortunate and were forced to give up the flight.

DOOLITTLE STREAKS BACK
WESTWARD WITH NO REST
NEWARK AIRPORT, N. J., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Major James H. Doolittle raced across the transcontinental sky trail to a new record today.

The audacious aviator set his plane down here at 3:50 p. m. (eastern standard time), just 11 hours and 15 minutes after he had hopped off from Burbank, Cal., at 4:35 a. m. (eastern standard time).

In bettering the 1930 performance of Captain Frank M. Hawks by 1 hour 10 minutes and 3 seconds, Doolittle also beat a field of eight into Cleveland, Ohio, to capture the Bendix air trophy competition from Burbank to Cleveland.

Tired but still ambitious, Doolittle turned his plane around here and streaked back toward Cleveland to-night en route to his St. Louis home. He arrived in Cleveland at 8:42 p. m. (eastern standard time), 1 hour and 52 minutes after leaving here. He took six minutes longer to cover the

Nevada Executes 4th In Lethal Chamber

CARSON CITY, Nev., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Louis Cejas, murderer, smiled grimly in Nevada's tiny cubicle of a death house today.

A stethoscope to his heart was passed through the thick walls of the structure to a physician waiting outside. Some 75 persons crowded around the building, with their eyes pressed to the double-paned windows.

The sheriff pulled a tripod. It tumbled 15 capsules of cyanide into a bucket of water and sulphuric acid. The mixture fumed. The scent of almonds permeated the room. Cejas breathed deeply. The smile left his face. He lost consciousness; was pronounced dead 25 minutes later.

Cejas was the fourth man to be executed in the lethal death chamber. He was convicted of slaying Charlie Fong, wealthy Chinese restaurant owner, in a quarrel over a red-headed girl.

France Extends Walker One of Highest Honors

PARIS, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Mayor Walker, of New York, today was made commander of the Legion of Honor, one of the highest distinctions which France confers.

The honor came to him out of a clear sky, so to speak, for there had been no intimation, even to the mayor himself, that the decoration was to be bestowed upon him.

Although many Americans have been created chevaliers of the legion, comparatively few have been made commanders. One of these is Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, who was decorated at Washington last January.

When it was necessary to act against the speakies directly, he said, it was preferable to advance "by the observation method or by the method of purchase of liquor, not the consumption."

Director Woodcock, of the prohibition bureau, in a lengthy letter to all members of the federal dry army, said it was better to proceed against speakies by cutting off their supply, but that in any event drinking by agents to avert suspicion was "the older method."

GEORGIA VEERING FROM LONG PLAN AS TEXAS WAGERS

With Lone Star Governor Still Undecided, This State Backs 50 Per Cent Curtailment Plan.

As a special session of the Texas legislature, which must act before effective laws to control the 1932 cotton crop can be passed, remained clouded in doubt southern cotton leaders Friday were veering away from the Long "no cotton" plan to a program calling for a 50 per cent curtailment of the crop next year.

Although J. E. McDonald, Texas commissioner of agriculture, announced in Austin Sept. 18 of 31 state senators were pledged to support control legislation, Governor Sterling, of that state, continued to maintain his own counsel. He repeated a former statement that he wanted the pledges in "black and white" and would not call a session until the 17 pledges were in his office.

During the day he did take note, somewhat caustically, of Governor Huey P. Long's insistence upon action in the Lone Star state.

"Governor Long is not running Texas," Sterling said. "He may be able to demand that his legislature vote whatever he wants but we are a little more democratic in Texas."

Russell Smith, Walling, Governor Russell also continued to await developments elsewhere, particularly in Texas, but explained that he could call the general assembly into extraordinary session overnight. Other state leaders were turning to the 50 per cent reduction plan, although Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture, continued to champion the Long plan in a speech at Newberryville. He will speak again today at 2:30 o'clock at Elberton.

Considerable significance was attached to a letter the chief executive received from W. Cecil Neill, president of the state senate, who wrote, omitting any reference to what Texas does or does not do, that he thought an extra session "inadvisable" and announced his unqualified opposition to the "no cotton" plan.

In his opinion, Neill said, "legislation which seeks to change the natural laws of supply and demand is unsound. Even if such legislation were constitutional, and its effects would be a temporary rise in the price of cotton, the tendency would be toward overproduction in 1933 and, having once set the precedent, each year would be a repetition of the same."

Neill was replying to the governor's telegram, sent last Monday night, asking opinions as to the wisdom of a special session, and outlining briefly the Long plan.

Commissioner McDonald, in Texas, in a statement cautioning tolerance of the Texas governor's position, added new emphasis to the 50 per cent curtailment and virtually eliminated the Lone Star state from a slight-out-no-production-in-1932 plan.

The new plan included one offered by Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, by which a 50 per cent curtailment would be effected through the functioning of local committees co-operating with the federal farm board. That there is a division of sentiment in Arkansas, also, was disclosed shortly after the Robinson session when Governor Parnell issued a statement saying 75 per cent of the farmers of his state favored the Long plan.

He added that he was waiting on Governor Sterling before taking steps to convene a special session of the legislature.

Radio Communication Reveals Nautilus Safe

OSLO, Norway, Sept. 4.—(AP)—All is well aboard Sir Hubert Wilkins' submarine Nautilus, from which the first news in five days came tonight.

Communication with the submarine, now on an Arctic cruise, was established by the radio station of the meteorological institute at Tromsø. A full report of the conversation, which lasted 20 minutes, was not made public, but it is known Sir Hubert gave assurances that all aboard were well.

Communication with the Nautilus also was established by the Bergen radio station and the steamship Fridtjof Nansen. Sir Hubert refused to give any indication of his position.

3 NEGROES FREED IN MANGUM DEATH

Trio at Newnan Released as Police Push Wide Hunt for Slayer Here.

Convinced that Calvin Wheeler Mangum, co-proprietor of the Model Laundry, was shot and killed as he entered a holdup of his plant Thursday night, the police Friday centered their efforts on locating a negro seen entering the building immediately preceding the slaying and who fled a minute or two after the shot was fired.

As the first result of this effort Sheriff R. L. Banks, of Coweta county Friday noon arrested three negroes at Newnan and was holding them for Atlanta authorities. Detective Lieutenant T. O. Sturdivant and Detective E. L. Ginn went to Newnan late Friday afternoon but the negroes were released after being questioned by the Atlanta office.

The arrest of the three men coupled with the return of an open verdict by a jury empaneled by Coroner Paul Donehoe were the two highlights of the day's investigation into the slaying.

The three men were convicted by the revelation by James Callaway, of Decatur, the last man besides the slayer to see Mr. Mangum alive, that he, too, saw a small negro lurking in the vicinity of the Model Laundry when he took Mr. Mangum to his offices after a game of golf which the slayer had won.

Mr. Callaway's new information came at the instance of the Atlanta office, which was in favor of undertaking parol of H. M. Patterson and Son.

"On finishing the game at East Lake I took Mr. Mangum to his offices where he was to leave his golf bag and his golf clubs, which he intended to have laundered," Mr. Callaway said.

Board Marks Time While Chief Considers Request That He Quit.

With Chief of Police James L. Beavers still in the saddle following preliminary efforts of the police committee to unseat him in favor of a younger man, members of the committee Friday were marking time pending a reply from Beavers to their request that he retire on a pension.

A conference between the chief and the committee is expected within the next week or so, when Beavers probably will answer the committee's views of his capacity to handle the job.

Members of the committee Friday said that they are not out after the chief with the idea of demanding his resignation with a threat of a forced-out, but that they hope to be able to handle the entire matter in an amicable manner to the satisfaction of Beavers and themselves. This might involve the resignation of Beavers to take effect January 26, when he will have served 43 years in the department.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Prohibition was condemned in a resolution adopted by the thirty-second annual encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars here today which demands a repeal of the eighteenth amendment and modification of existing dry enactments.

CAPITAL OFFICERS INDICTED BY JURY

Policemen Charged With Assault in Using Third Degree Methods.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Five Washington policemen today were indicted for assault and charged with resorting to third degree methods to obtain confessions from their prisoners.

The District of Columbia grand jury made short work of examining a mass of testimony uncovered by department of justice operatives. It acted at the request of President Hoover that if the third degree existed in Washington those who used it should be severely punished.

The grand jury indictments charged the five officers with beating four men in a local police station within a space of two days, using weapons ranging from fists to rubber hose and wooden club. The charges carry maximum penalty of 10 years' imprisonment.

At the same time, the jurors reported that a former member of the Washington police force, Orville Staples, had been convicted by a police trial board upon "perjured testimony by incompetent witnesses" when charged with extorting money from bootleggers and immoral women.

"We feel," the jurors said, "that all members of the metropolitan police department who were connected with the gathering of evidence in connection with the trial of Orville Staples were either active participants in the securing of false evidence, or were guilty of gross negligence, incompetence and indifference."

The grand jury report urged that Staples be restored to the force, another policeman, Joseph H. Hunt, be dismissed, and all members connected with the case "severely reprimanded," unless the District of Columbia commissioners thought more severe measures were justified.

The third degree indictments were returned as follows:

Detective James A. Mostyn, and Patrolmen William T. Burroughs, William C. Groomes, William R. Laffin were charged with beating James H. Barker, youthful baker, with a rubber hose and their fists until he was bruised and wounded.

Mostyn was accused of using his fists to beat Preston Brooks, a negro, to the great damage of him.

Mostyn and Laffin also were charged with using their fists on Walter W. Johnson, a negro, on the same day that Barker was beaten.

Patrolman George E. Perry was accused of assault with a "dangerous weapon," a wooden club, against John F. Miller, a negro.

Despite the feeling that has accompanied the first federal investigation of third degree methods since they were condemned by the Wickersham commission, the indictments were returned today in the court of Judge Dickinson Letts without a demonstration.

In its report on the Staples case, the grand jury said charges that the United States attorney's office here was involved were "false in their entirety." It likewise said it found no evidence of "corruption and graft against any of the officials of the metropolitan police department."

QUIMET TO MEET YOUNG CHICAGOAN FOR GOLF CROWN

Boston Veteran Downs Fighting Virginian, 2 and 1, While Westland Beats McCarthy 3 and 2.

BY ALAN GOULD.
BEVERLY COUNTRY CLUB, CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Sharpshooting his way back toward the peak he has failed to reach since his triumph of 17 years ago, the veteran Francis Quimet today turned back the "Buy Wonder" of Virginia, Billy Howell, and will play the home-town favorite, Jack Westland, tomorrow for the amateur golf championship of the United States.

With a finishing flash of inspired golf reminiscent of the pre-war days, when he was first open and then amateur champion of the nation, a boy wonder then himself, Quimet outlasted the 19-year-old Howell to win by 2 and 1. The Richmond youth battled gamely to the last shot. Quimet dealt the finishing blow by sinking a 20-foot putt on the 35th green for a birdie deuce after Billy, had come within a few inches of holing out from a trap.

A gallery of nearly 3,000 spectators cheered this brilliant finale shortly after Westland checked the last-ditch rally of Maurice J. McCarthy Jr. to eliminate New York's favorite, 3 and 2, on the 34th hole. McCarthy started out a 2-ol choice but he was never a match for the cool and skillful Chicago star until it was too late. Six down and six to go, McCarthy put on a typical rally, capturing three straight holes, but missed a three-footer to win the 34th and passed out of the picture.

The 36-hole final will start at 9 a. m. (C. S. T.) tomorrow and bring together two players whose national tournament experience hardly could be more sharply contrasting. This is Quimet's fifteenth national amateur battle since 1913, whereas Westland qualified only once before, in 1926 at Baltusrol, where he was eliminated by Watts Gunn in the first round.

Quimet, a semi-finalist eight times altogether, twice before has been in the final. He beat Jerry Traverser for the crown in 1914 but lost to Chick Evans, of Chicago, in 1920. Evans helped "root" Quimet in this afternoon semi-final, capturing three straight holes, but missed a three-footer to win the 34th and passed out of the picture.

Westland, the Chicago district champion, has come down from the most brilliant golf in the first "Jones" tournament since before the war. First to tee off in the qualifying round, he was the first to make the nine in 33 strokes, 3 under par. He led the field for the day with a 72, but skidded to an 84 on Tuesday and qualified only by the margin of a single stroke.

Safely past this barrier he displayed extraordinary match play skill. His golf today was the soundest in either semi-final. He took the measure of the stalwart sharpshooter from New York. He negotiated the first round today in 75 despite a weird 7 on the home hole, and went to lunch 2 up.

From the outset of the afternoon round Westland turned the match unexpectedly into a rout. He took five of the first seven holes and became

Two Girl Hitch Hikers Arrested for Banditry

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 4.—(AP) Accused of taking an automobile from J. W. They were held on federal grand jury $2,500 bonds each after a hearing before United States Commissioner J. Pike Peters on charges of driving a stolen car from North Carolina to Tennessee.

The girls were arrested in Jefferson City yesterday by Police Chief N. R. Roberts.

"Beale told me the girls asked him for a ride as he passed for a red light in Jefferson City," Chief Roberts testified today. "After they got out of town, one of the girls turned on him with a razor and the other with a pistol and forced him to hand the car over to them."

ECONOMY DRIVE OF FILTON BOARD EFFECTIVE OCT. 1

Only One Employee in System Escapes Sweeping Reduction Program. Commissioners Cut Own Pay by 10 Per Cent.

ADDITIONAL CUTS PROMISED JAN. 1

Further Reduction of $45,323 Arranged for First of Year in Certain Other Departments.

Salary cuts aggregating $163,433, to be effective October 1, are to affect virtually all Fulton county employees, including members of the commission, were passed at a special meeting of the county board Friday afternoon. Additional cuts were promised for January 1 to total $45,323.

The economy program embraces every Fulton county employee save one, a woman in the farm demonstration agent's office who draws but $100 a month. The resolution was agreed upon and signed by all members of the board before the meeting. When the session was called, the resolution was read and adopted. The commissioners cut their own salaries 10 per cent, a voluntary action, as their salaries are fixed by law at $300 a month.

In the preamble to the resolution authorizing the sweeping cuts, the commissioners set out that they wished to lessen the burden of taxation and that though they were not unmindful of the loyal and efficient services of all employees that they recognized changed living conditions which makes a cut now less burdensome than "at any time in many years past."

Judges Cut $3,000.
The salaries of the judges of the superior court were the first to be considered, and each was reduced from $12,000 a year to $10,000.

In the case of the county chief judge Luther B. Roser was reduced $1,000 a year, while the other four judges were reduced $1,500 a year. Judge Roser's salary is approximately $10,000 yearly and the others $9,000 each. The chief marshal, J. M. George, making $7,500 a year, and the county clerk, Q. H. Pickett, making $9,000 a year, were reduced $1,200 each. All other employees of the court were reduced 10 per cent.

In the case of the county engineer George Matheson was reduced $450 a year and all other employees were reduced 10 per cent. It was stated that the county police too was cut at the first of the year. Chief Matheson's salary is $7,750 a year.

Henry M. Wood, clerk of the county board, was reduced $1,800 a year from a salary of $7,800 yearly, and all employees in his department by 10 per cent. Salaries of the county attorney, chief engineer, custodian of buildings and the county auditor, all making more than $500 monthly, are cut $450 each year and all other employees in their departments by the regular 10 per cent.

Public Works Head Cut.
The superintendent of public works was reduced $1,200 with the 10 per cent cut. The salary of the assistant, A. A. Clarke, the superintendent, has been receiving $9,000 yearly. This included county physicians

TURNER SENTENCE
UPHELD BY COURTEx-Councilman Must Serve Year; White's Conviction Also Affirmed.

A 12-month chain gang sentence imposed on J. E. Turner, former city councilman, following his conviction on graft charges, was upheld in a decision handed down Friday by the court of appeals. In another decision, the court affirmed a superior court action in sentencing Jack White, former business partner of former Councilman Harry Turner, to serve a sentence of 12 months and pay a fine of $1,000 in connection with the purchase of trucks by the city.

The Turner case involved the charge that the former councilman accepted a bribe for placing the repair work of the city's trucks with the Federal Truck Company. He and Bruce Baxter, according to the evidence, received a sedan valued at $500 for placing the work with that company.

"Clearly," the court's opinion said, "the bribe statute is applicable to members of municipal council. Turner's case was appealed on the ground that Georgia laws affecting bribery do not apply to officials of the city."

There is ample evidence to show that Turner, who was jointly indicted with White, accepted a bribe for his vote and influence and that White aided and abetted him in the offense and received part of the proceeds.

The court affirmed the verdict of the Macon city court in the case of Mrs. Gus Wachtel against Earl H. Bloch, a sales agent of the city board of education because of his membership on the county board of registrars, under the city's charter. The matter was brought to Gaines' attention at a meeting of the school board Monday night by H. J. Penn, member of the board, but Penn did not insist that Gaines retire as chairman and the school board did not take any action.

Councilman Lytle said he intends to bring up in council the case with which pistols and other dangerous weapons are obtained by a person using the Wheeler-Mangum slaying as one recent instance of the harm caused by unregulated sale of weapons.

Two convictions from Laurens county were upheld. One case was against Wilson, who was sentenced to 12 months or a fine of $100 for stabbing Fred Godbold. In the other Henry Hicks was sentenced to 12 months or a fine of $40 for pointing a pistol at A. Parr.

The indictment charging Dr. W. A. Manner, Atlanta, with arson was upheld. The indictment alleged he spread gasoline over a pile of boxes and barrels and applied gasoline and alcohol to it, to burn the plant of the Durham Medical Institute, on Hunter street, Atlanta. The defendant filed a demurrer before arraignment. The demurrer was overruled and the high court upheld the lower court's ruling today.

Burglars Continue
Raids Despite Bars

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Sept. 4.—(AP)—F. C. Kerr has almost given up trying to keep burglars and robbers out of his store. In the past few months burglars have broken into his place on four occasions and on each occasion carried off two of his clerks and one customer. As a last resort he put heavy bars across a rear window—a favorite place of entry for thieves. Today he found more burglars had pried the bars off, entered the store and helped themselves to merchandise, raiding from salted peanuts to hardware.

ROCHESTER SUSPECT
CAPTURED IN DENVER

DENVER, Col., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Angelo Moreale, sought for the slaying of Mrs. Angelina Spitalo, 10, in Rochester, N. Y., in November, 1923, was held here today.

Arrested on another charge, he was recognized at the police lineup. He confessed he was in the motor car from which bullets were fired into a car driven by Sam Spitalo, fatally wounding the wife, Angelina.

OUSTER OF GAINESProceedings Will Be Filed
Unless School Board
Chief Resigns.

Unless W. W. Gaines, president of the Atlanta board of education, resigns as chairman and member of the Fulton county board of registrars before 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, ouster proceedings will be filed in council against the school board head, Councilman George B. Lytle announced Friday.

Councilman Lytle said that he has been advised by City Attorney James L. Mayson that Gaines is not eligible as a member of the city board of education because of his membership on the county board of registrars, under the city's charter. The matter was brought to Gaines' attention at a meeting of the school board Monday night by H. J. ASHLAND, Wis., Sept. 4.—(UP)—Cows took Ashland by storm today. Nearly 50 of them broke out of the railroad stockyards, climbed porch steps, hauled policemen and carried on generally.

Three leaped off the docks into Lake Superior. One was roped by the captain of the steamer Madeline and the others awash to shore. Police and amateur cowboys finally rounded up the herd.

CITY TEACHERS
WILL MEET TODAY

Atlanta school teachers will meet at 9:30 o'clock this morning at Bass Junior High school to consider their reply to the request of Mayor James L. Key that the teachers voluntarily give up one month's salary together with other city employees in order to solve the city's financial dilemma.

Mayor Key, in a talk to the teachers at the Baptist Tabernacle Friday, made two other requests of the teachers: that they stand behind the proposed water rate increase, and that they impress the public with the fact that whatever happens, the schools will not close.

"It is exceedingly important that our teachers take the right attitude at this time," Mayor Key said. He warned the teachers that even with the utmost economy, the city will be unable to pay teachers' salaries after the first of December, and that a month's salary cut is unavoidable.

Mayor Key does not want the teachers to campaign for the water rate increase, because he does not want to plunge the schools into a political campaign, but he does want the teachers to ask men of prominence and influence to conduct the campaign for the good of Atlanta's children. The increase in the water rate would go to the board of education. Mayor Key was given a warm welcome by the teachers, with sustained applause at the conclusion of his remarks.

Prior to the meeting with the teachers Mayor Key conferred with a contact committee from the board of education, headed by E. R. Sweet. As the result of the conference with the mayor, the committee will be able to report progress to the board at its regular meeting at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The committee attended the meeting of teachers.

7 Gold Star Mothers of Georgia Reach U. S. After Visit to France

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—When the United States liner America rested at quarantine in New York harbor today it brought back from the battlefields of France seven Georgia Gold Star mothers among the 104 Gold Star mothers and widows on board.

Atlanta claimed one, Mrs. Nancy Grantham, nearest relative of the late Private Virgil P. Heady. Mrs. Grantham gave her address as care of J. E. Murphy, Atlanta Title and Trust Company Building, Atlanta. The Atlanta member was in the division of the delegation touring particularly the Dixie-Aisne battlefields.

The other Georgia mothers included Mrs. Della McCray O'Neal, of Alton, mother of the late Private First Class Rufus C. O'Neal; Mrs. Carrie W. Carlisle, of 35 Thornton avenue, LaGrange, mother of the late Private Merritt E. Carlisle; Mrs. Hassie Johnson, of Loganville, stepmother of the late Private Rubie L. Johnson; Mrs. Ina R. Haynie, R. F. D. 4, Newnan, nearest relative of the late Private Lewis Haynie; Mrs. Annabel Holt, of R. F. D. 1, Waycross, mother of the late Private Aaron O. Holt; and Mrs. Martha Snipes, Route 1, Whigham, stepmother of the late Private Austin Snipes.

The Georgia delegation joined with their comrades in praise of their treatment by American and French officials on the trip. Mrs. Grantham remarked especially on the well-kept graves over there and said that the trip meant to her a dream realized. The party was greeted today at the dock by government officials and Gold Star Association officers.

TWO REGIMENTS JOIN REVOLTERS IN CHILE
SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The failure of the Coquimbo naval mutiny to ratify final terms of a truce by which the government hoped to end the mutiny, and a general strike of all Valparaiso laborers presented a grave situation for the Chilean government to cope with tonight.

Santiago trolley cars were stopped because, it was reported, all cars reaching terminals met delegations of communists who intimidated the crews.

Two regiments at Valparaiso revolted tonight and joined the naval mutineers.

CHINA BUYS GRAIN FROM FARM BOARD

U. S. Ships To Have Opportunity To Transport Wheat Across Pacific.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The farm board has sold China 15,000,000 bushels of wheat.

Completion of the negotiations for the transaction was announced today by President Hoover. The grain will be used to feed the hungry in the flooded regions along the Yangtze river.

Carl Williams, farm board member, said a minimum of 50 per cent of the wheat would go as flour and that shipments were expected to begin the latter part of this month.

The Chinese government, he said, agreed to pay equal installments on the wheat in 1934, 1935 and 1936. The price is to be market quotations at the time of shipment, with interest at 4 per cent.

Presentments Urge County Pay Slash, Hit Movie Censors

Recommendation for a general cut in county salaries, approval of the police commission's efforts to raise the tone of Atlanta's police department, and a mildly sarcastic criticism of Atlanta's board of moving picture censorship were the salient features of presentments returned Friday by the retiring July term of the Fulton county grand jury.

The salary cut was carried out at a meeting of the board of commissioners a few hours later. Other features included commendation of Solicitor-General John A. Boykin, and the efforts of Assistant Solicitor John Hudson to obtain a legislative bill making abandonment a felony. The jury expressed the hope that such a bill would be passed by the next legislature.

The jury waxed ironical in commenting on the board of censors. "Have we a board of censors for the review of motion pictures?" the presentment demanded. "If so, perhaps it has recently been on a vacation, judging by picture advertisements. Motion pictures are too potent a factor in character-building to be ignored."

In praising the police board for its efforts to strengthen discipline in the force, the jury declared itself in favor of immediately discharging any peace officer convicted of using whisky or narcotics, and of prosecuting convicted officers in the criminal courts. Judge Virlyn B. Moore commended the jury for its conscientious performance of duty, and for the brevity of its presentments. Thomas Pitts was foreman. The new jury will be sworn in Tuesday.

Colonel Woodcock came to Salisbury, his former home, to attend a bank directors' meeting today.

Woodcock will sail from New York tomorrow for Miami.

On an inspection trip last July, Woodcock investigated conditions in Louisiana and Texas. On the present trip, he said, the remainder of the fifth prohibition district, comprising the states of Florida, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi, will be covered.

Howard P. Wright, deputy prohibition administrator for the Atlanta district, stated Friday that he understood Mr. Woodcock's itinerary would not be planned until after he left Miami, and for that reason it was not definite just when the national administrator would be in this section. Mr. Wright was expecting notification of the itinerary later.

MAN, CLEANING WELL, FALLS TO HIS DEATH

Overcome by gas while cleaning a well in the rear of his home on Lafayette avenue, near Lakewood park, Friday, E. N. Pitts, 57, fell back into the well as he attempted to climb to the top for air, and was drowned before Oscar Brown, working on a well some distance away, could be summoned to his assistance. Brown, assisted by Tom Jones and Mack Lowery, neighbors, brought the drowned man to the surface, but he was pronounced dead on arrival at a hospital.

According to Mrs. Pitts, her husband had been cleaning the well for some time and last Tuesday underwent the second major operation within a week.

Charlie Yates Plays Dick Garlington Today for City Title; Ouimet, Westland Enter Finals of National Amateur Tourney

CHARLIE YATES, DICK GARLINGTON MEET FOR TITLE

Julius Hughes, Berrien Moore Fall in City Golf Meet.

By Roy White.

Charlie Yates Jr., youthful East Lake star, who takes Georgia amateur champion, and Dick Garlington, former Capital City Country Club champion, will meet in a 36-hole match today on the Druid Hills course in the finals of the 17th annual Atlanta amateur championship.

The morning round will start at 9:30 o'clock and the final 18 holes are scheduled to begin at 2 o'clock. Finals in all other flights will be 18 holes and will be played during the morning. The afternoon flight slated to start at 8:25 o'clock.

Yates advanced to the finals with a double victory Friday over L. R. Hunter in the morning, and Julius Hughes, former city champion, in the afternoon. His morning victory was 4-3, and the afternoon match ended 3-2.

GREAT PLAY.

Dick Garlington continued his great play Friday to earn his way to the finals. He eliminated Pete Barnes, 7-6, in the morning and disposed of Berrien Moore Jr., runner-up last year, 1 up on the 18th green in the semi-finals.

The match today should be packed with excitement and good golf. Yates will be shooting for a record of winning the state and city title the same year, while Garlington will struggle for the first time in the final.

Garlington is playing the best golf of his career and has never been over 80 during the qualifying round or match play this week. Should he keep going it will be plenty tough for Yates today.

Yates on the other hand has not played such a spectacular game, but has been steady as a clock from the very beginning.

HOLE-IN-ONE.

One of the bright features of the tournament was a hole-in-one Friday afternoon by J. W. Engelke, a Piedmont Park player on the 13th green. He was one down to Duke Turner, a fellow Piedmont player, in the fourth flight and sank a 200-yard wood shot from the tee. It is a par three hole.

Following the ace, Engelke continued to set a hot pace and won out, 2-1, with a medal round in a row. His best since he started playing golf some time ago.

In the semi-finals against Hughes, Yates fought one of his greatest battles. He was two down at three and one down at the turn. Yates squared the match at the 10th, lost the 11th and then won four holes in a row to go two up and four to go. Yates then won the 16th and the match.

Yates had a medal round of 63 for the 18 holes, two over par. He was outdriven on 10 of the holes and only once had a margin after the tee shot. Yates' deadly approach and his putting, with 67 percent of his 16 greens, were his main weapons.

Hughes, after missing a short putt on the first, literally burned up the front side with a 35, one under par, but faltered at the 12th and 13th where his tee shots failed. Hughes' putting was nothing to write home about, although he saved the back side of the match on the fifth to square the hole.

GARLINGTON.

After being one down through the 10th hole, Dick Garlington rallied to square the match at the 11th with Moore and win out on the 15th. Garlington was outdriven on practically every hole, but his iron game was excellent as was his putting on the last few holes. Garlington's first one-putt green was the 17th and his second on the 18th, where he won. Moore was one up at the ninth and held the advantage through the 16th.

Except for the Yates-Hunter match, which Yates won, 4-3, there was little excitement in the quarter-final round during the morning. Not a single match extended beyond the 15th green and the large gallery was left stranded with no matches to see.

In his match with Hunter, Yates was two over par on the first nine holes and was only two up. He continued a steady pace and was able to close out the match on the 15th green.

Dick Garlington, who struck a hot pace Thursday when he eliminated Robin Adair, 8-7, continued a warm streak Friday morning and beat Pete Barnes, Junior Chamber of Commerce champion, 7-6. Garlington was one over par for the first nine and was five up at the turn. Barnes lost the last five holes of the first nine.

EXTRA HOLE MATCH.
Berrien Moore Jr., runner-up last year, played a steady game to beat Al Floyd, the conqueror of Charlie Black Jr., defending champion, Julius Hughes, Druid Hills champion, eliminating him.

There is one thing to be said for Sassy Slapsiey Maxie Rosenbloom, who fights Battling Bozo here on September 22. He never pretends anything about the fight racket. He just has fun.

It was Maxie who had his picture taken training for the Slattery fight a couple of weeks ago while leaning against a bar blowing foam off a schooner of beer—real beer.

And then there was another photograph of Maxie dancing the Rumba on the floor of some night club up in Harlem. Maxie enjoys his work. And he doesn't take it seriously. He can fight. He'd as soon clown as not. Al Thoma, first lieutenant for Jimmy Johnston, was hanging here a few weeks ago while handling Sergeant Sammy Baker in the Crosby battle.

"Maxie told me that when he met Bozo in Birmingham he fought two battles—one for the decision and one for the clown title."

The clown part of the fight will be the best thing Atlantans have seen. Bozo would not be averse to having his picture taken blowing froth off a mug of beer. The Bozo does not drink the stuff, so they say, but he would not mind pictures of any kind.

Bozo breaks into print in many curious ways. There was the time he caromed a monkey wrench off his mother-in-law's head, sending the dear old lady to the hospital. The Bozo, overcome by remorse, hurried her to the hospital, paid the bills and gave her presents. There was the time he refused to pay his light bill. When the company turned off the lights he used his automobile headlights. And when friends ran up his telephone bill during his absence at Cleveland during the Stribling training, he refused to pay and helped the men take out the telephone.

"If someone has to call up their ever-loving husband on my telephone and the ever-loving husband is in Miami the company should collect from them—not me," said the Bozo.

There is something in that. There should be something done about friends who use the long distance phone. It may be that the Bozo has struck the right track. Help the company take out the telephone.

By all means see the fight September 22.

MEHRE'S FISH STORY.

Mr. Harry Mehre, whose voracity is excellent, is probably the only man who lost a golf tee to a bass.

The beautiful course at Athens has four water shots across various reaches of the lake. Mehre always places his tee as close to the lake as possible. A few days ago he swung, took tee and ball in one swipe, and saw the ball cross the lake (Lucky! Lucky!) and the tee strike the water.

The tee had barely come to rest when a big bass swirled up and took it. And I keep wondering if that bass ever had the stomachache trying to digest one of those bright red tees? This may explain why fishermen haven't caught much. Maybe the bass have gone golf-minded and are biting only wooden tees.

ANOTHER COME-BACK.

Battling Cyclone, "The Black Snake," is coming back. (Isn't this Dempsey-Leonard influence ever going to end?) The Battler came into the office yesterday.

"Mist' Mac," he said, "I'm comin' out of retirement."

Investigation led to the fact that the Cyclone, who has been training some boys hereabouts, is burned up because some of his boys are getting "biggy."

The Cyclone, who has invaded Cuba and Porto Rico in search of noses to punch in the lightweight class, was content to rest on his laurels.

That is, he was until "diffunt pahities" started making insinuations about the Cyclone's ability.

"These heah boys done got the big haid, gittin' biggy, and I is good and mad. I already knocked out foah spar pahnuhs in one wukout," said Cyclone.

"You jes' let 'em know 'at Cyclone wants fights."

And there you are. The Cyclone is going to blow through the lightweight ranks. This department will receive all challenges on behalf of the Cyclone. People with the "big haid" who have done got biggy" will not be tolerated.

WE MAY DO WHAT?

Some of the boys, who have been going to see Fifi Dorsay in the movies and consequently are sticklers for their pronunciation of French names, had this experience last night—

Francis Ouimet, says the Fifi Dorsay fans, should be pronounced "We-May" and not "Oui-Met" as Mr. Ouimet himself calls it.

A young lady called and asked, "How did the golfers come out?"

"Ouimet won his match," said Mr. Jimmy Jones, in his best Fifi Dorsay pronunciation.

"We may do what?" asked the young lady innocently.

"Nothing," said Mr. Jones, blushing furiously, "I just said that 'WE-MET' won his match."

MANGUM WAS STAR PITCHER.

Wheeler Mangum, whose untimely passing shocked Atlanta, was one of the city's greatest amateur pitchers some years ago. He received numerous offers to pitch in professional baseball but refused them. His friends said Friday that some of the largest baseball crowds the city had ever had were those which turned out to the amateur games when Mangum was scheduled to pitch.

THOSE TENNIS PICTURES.

Bill Tilden's tennis pictures, which go on the screen here today, are thrilling in their scenes of Big Bill in action. The camera catches the sensation of speed in a manner which almost takes the breath at times. And the teaching qualities of the film are great.

RANK INJUSTICE.

A young man in Washington, according to press reports, set out to celebrate his 36th birthday. He eventually found himself at the zoo. A lion roared at him. He roared back. It got to be a contest and he defeated the lion. A policeman arrested him. There is no justice. Any man who can out-roar a lion at 36 deserves his freedom.

TWENTY GRAND AND SUN BEAU TO RACE TODAY

Pull in Weights Makes Whitney Colt Even Betting Choice.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Sun Beau, king of the older horses and leading money winner of the world, will attempt to extend his dominance in the 20-year-old turf division tomorrow when he meets Twenty Grand in the 51st running of the $50,000 added Saratoga cup.

The six-year-old veteran from Wilkes Shady Ridge's Binghamton, N. Y., stable, and his three-year-old rival, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Green Tree, were named today for the mile and six-furlong race, which will feature the closing day's program at the Spa.

The Belair stud's Sir Ashley and Morton L. Schwartz's Quarterdeck also were named to start, but the race figures to be strictly a Sun Beau-Twenty Grand affair.

The track was heavy today from recent rains, but a bright sun was doing its best to make the racing strip fast. The $50,000 Hopeful with 20 two-year-olds named overnight to start also is down for decision, but Broadway talked of nothing but the merits of Twenty Grand and Sun Beau to-night.

The weight for age clause, which will give Twenty Grand an eight-pound pull in weights probably will send the three-year-old favorite to the post the even money favorite in the time-honored Lincoln. Quarterdeck, a four-year-old, and Sun Beau will carry 126 pounds, while Twenty Grand and Sir Ashley will pack 118.

Although Sun Beau has won on practically every American track in his climb to the top of the financial heap with earnings of $355,044, it has been the first time he has started in the historic Preakness. Pony Mcatee, one of the smartest jockeys ever to throw a leg over a thoroughbred, will be aboard the big bag from Greentree, while Sun Beau will be piloted by the less experienced Charley Phillips. Tony Pascua will have the mount on Sir Ashley, while Pete Walls will be up on Quarterdeck.

The Hopeful, a feature race for an ordinary card, will bring together a score of the best juveniles in training. Although the race is expected to swing to Victor Emanuel's Morfar, a son of Morvich, which won the feature in 1921, R. R. Cascaud's intercolony and J. J. Louchheim's Economic.

The Hopeful, a feature race for an ordinary card, will bring together a score of the best juveniles in training.

Although the city and national amateur golf tournaments are attracting plenty of attention, Atlanta's golfers have numerous matches in their own backyards to be completed today.

Ansel park will continue qualifying rounds today and Sunday in the annual club championship tournament.

Johnnie Welch, who has a 77 holds the lead for medal honors at present.

First-round matches in the West End championship tournament will be completed today and Sunday, with the second round scheduled to start Monday afternoon.

East Lake golfers will complete quarter-final matches today, and start the semi-finals Sunday afternoon.

Members of the Piedmont Park Golf Club will continue the quarter-final matches today and Sunday, with the second round scheduled to start Monday afternoon.

Numerous matches in the annual Forest Hills club championship golf tournament will be completed today and Sunday, and the meet nears the quarter-final round.

Quarter-final matches in the annual Golf Refining Company golf tournament will be played this afternoon on the Sweetwater golf course near Austell.

In the upper bracket Mike Nichols plays A. E. Roquemore, and W. F. Darby meets J. T. Nichols. In the lower bracket Tiger Hargrove plays Joe Kahler, and C. C. Callaway meets Tillman Morris.

Howard Land, owner, and Douglas Lindsay, club professional, are co-operating with Mike Nichols, committee chairman, and officials of the Gulf in promoting the tournament.

Elsas Cup Meet Begins at Ingleside.

Qualifying rounds for the annual Oscar Elsas cup tournament to be played on the Ingleside course will be played this afternoon. It will be a handicap affair.

First-round matches will be played Sunday, with the second round scheduled to be completed by Wednesday. Quarterfinals will be played before September 12 and the finals, at 36 holes, will be played Sunday, September 13.

Jimmy Livingston, club professional, together with Norman Elsas, Robert Schwab, Monie Ferst, Edwin Haas and G. S. Schoen, members of the club, will be in charge of the event.

Druid Hills Golfers Come Home.

Druid Hills golfers can return to their home course at 2 o'clock this afternoon, following the start of the final 18 holes in the championship match of the city amateur tournament. The course has been closed to club members during the city tourney which ends today.

The announcement was made Friday afternoon by officials of the club.

Maxie Rosenbloom Signed To Fight Battering Bozo in Atlanta

JACK DEMPSEY AND LEONARD
APPEAR LATER

September 22 Set as Date.
Good Foe Sought
for Strife.

By Jimmy Jones.

Max Rosenbloom, the champion of the world's light heavyweights, will meet Battering Bozo, Pa. Strife's eccentric young title contender in the Atlanta auditorium, September 22, it was announced last night by Matchmaker Max Abelson.

It will be the champion's first visit to Atlanta. Abelson, after several days of dickering with Frank Bachman, Rosenbloom's manager, finally came to an agreement with the New Yorker last night. It is not yet known whether Rosenbloom's title will be at stake as that will be ironed out later. Abelson will make an effort to have the celebrated Harlem harlequin risk his crown and come in at specified weight.

ARRIVES EARLY.
"Slapsy Maxie," as he is called from his peculiar style of raining gloves upon his opponents' anatomy, will arrive here five days before the bout to start training for the fight.

While no definite guarantee was announced, Rosenbloom, it is understood, will receive a fat guarantee with the option of a round trip plus round-trip transportation for himself, his manager and two handlers.

Bozo and Rosenbloom have met twice before, close fights resulting each time. Newspapers called both draws.

Although considerable criticism has been leveled at Rosenbloom, he has fought often since gaining his title. His lifetime record shows he has beaten such men as Jimmy Slattery (whom he boxed in a 15-rounder), Larry Johnson, Ace, Paolino, Leo, Tiger, Flowers, Dave Shade, Pete Latzo, Johnny Winslow, Frankie Schell, Lou Scrozza, George Courtney, Tony Marullo and Jack Malone. He dropped 10 rounds decisions to each Jack Delaney and Young Strife, having met the latter in Boston when W. L. was campaigning as a light heavyweight.

PA SEES STEP UP.
Pa Strife feels that a victory, however close, over Rosenbloom will materially boost his boy in the light heavy ranking.

As for Max Abelson, he thinks the bout will be a "natural." He regards both contestants as evenly matched and interesting boxers to watch. He also thinks the public will want to see one of the other boxing superstars to their even battling on the two previous meetings.

This will be the first big bout for Atlanta fight fans in the elaborate and modern auditorium which is being planned by Abelson and Pa Strife.

They still are seeking a fit opponent for Young Strife, who is expected to appear here in the fall. Mickey Walker will appear here soon. "We intend staging all shows at popular prices and making a real fight center of Atlanta," Abelson stated yesterday.

James J. Corbett Enters Hospital

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—(UP)—James J. Corbett, former heavyweight champion, was taken to the medical center today and will remain there a week for observation.

Physicians said he was suffering from an internal ailment which is not yet been diagnosed. It is likely Corbett will be in the hospital on September 7—the thirty-ninth anniversary of the fight in which he won the championship from John J. Sullivan. Corbett is 64 years old. He recently has been appearing in vaudeville.

WESTLAND TODAY

to the 35th tee with Quimet one up and two to go.

FINE RECOVERY.
Quimet drove on the green 20 feet from the cup, and Howell was in a trap to the left, apparently without a chance to win the hole. The Virginia exploded out to within three feet of the cup. It looked as if the match would go to the final tee. Quimet, however, stepped in the 20-footer for a birdie two to win the match.

Quimet's long putts turned the tide of victory for him. At the 18th hole, Howell said: "I could see the match wouldn't last much longer when Quimet regained his putting stroke and touch in the afternoon. Each hole came closer and closer to the cup until we reached the 31st green when he canned a 10-footer, the first of a series of long putts which spelled defeat for me."

OTHER MATCH THRILLS.
The Westland match which was provided a series of thrills which culminated when McCarthy, son of a professional golfer, staged a gallant comeback against heavy odds during the afternoon.

Both played their first nine in the morning in 37's, one over par, and rounded the turn all even. McCarthy's game went to pieces on the second nine and he took a 43, eight over par, and finished the morning round two down.

Westland was invincible going out in the afternoon. Over the same 9 holes on which he shot a 33, three under par in the first day's qualifying round, Westland won five out of the first seven holes, and took a commanding lead of 7 up at the end of 25 holes.

McCarthy won the 26th and heaved the 27th and 28th. This was the eighth and eighth to play, McCarthy threw caution to the winds and, with a series of daring shots that Westland could not match, won the match in five holes and cut Westland's lead to 3 up and 3 to play. On the 34th green McCarthy missed an 18-inch putt which would have won the hole for him. Instead he halved the hole and Westland won the match, 3 and 2.

THE SPORTLIGHT

By Krawtall-Rice

BEVERLY COUNTRY CLUB, CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—The 19-year-old kid that took the great Vardon and Ray over the high hurdles at Brookline 18 years ago is now battling in the final round of another amateur championship to bag his second amateur crown.

When Francis Ouimet stopped Vardon and Ray and then crushed Travers at Ekanok a year later, he seemed to have the golf world at his feet. But for the next 17 years he has halted and rolled back on charge after charge until even his closest friends began to figure that he was in the rough and that his day was over.

They had to change their angle today when he finally beat back the counter-attacks of 19-year-old Billy Howell, of Richmond, Va., in the greatest match of the week, while Jack Westland, of Chicago, got the jump on Maurice McCarthy, of New York, to win by 3 and 2 after being six up and six to play.

Quimet reached his first final at Brookline against Jerry Travers, then amateur king of golf. Ouimet won by 6 and 5. He reached his second final at the Engineers' Club at Roslyn, L. I., in 1920, when he took Evans on a brilliant fireworks to win by 7 and 6.

Now for the third time in his career, which has included 19 championships, the Boston veteran has his chance against Westland, a steady, consistent golfer who has kept an even pace throughout his career.

Westland is a former University of Washington student who came to Chicago five years ago and this is his first big bid for fame. The semi-final battle between Ouimet and Howell was one of the most dramatic amateur championships in the history of the game. Ouimet is almost exactly twice Howell's age.

He could have been a star of the Virginia from Washington and Lee gave the Boston star a battle to the final shot.

"I consider it a great honor," he said to the referee, "to have the chance to play with Mr. Ouimet. This is the best I've ever had. I never had so much fun before."

And, instead of folding up before the job ahead of him, young Howell finished the morning round 1 up and 2 to play, and the pressure, curiously enough it was the 19-year-old kid who was career, as career as Ouimet was 18 years ago, when he stood up to the invading British stars without a quiver of the pulse.

It was the veteran today, battling to come back after so many snuffs, after so many gallant charges, who felt the pressure. You could see the effect in Ouimet's fast back swing and his tendency to hit too quickly from the top. He could have been a star of the Virginia from Washington and Lee gave the Boston star a battle to the final shot.

When the two started the afternoon round, Ouimet again opened with a wide hook and the same jerky swing. Two bad shots and a symmetrical six and Ouimet was in a trap to the left, apparently without a chance to win the hole. The Virginia exploded out to within three feet of the cup. It looked as if the match would go to the final tee. Ouimet, however, stepped in the 20-footer for a birdie two to win the match.

Quimet's long putts turned the tide of victory for him. At the 18th hole, Howell said: "I could see the match wouldn't last much longer when Ouimet regained his putting stroke and touch in the afternoon. Each hole came closer and closer to the cup until we reached the 31st green when he canned a 10-footer, the first of a series of long putts which spelled defeat for me."

Two Pelicans Sold To Cleveland Club

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 4.—(AP)—It was learned here tonight that Jack Ward and Bruce Connatter, outfielder and first baseman, respectively, of the New Orleans Pelicans were sold today to the Cleveland Indians. They will report next season, according to information received here from Manager Larry Talbot, at Birmingham, Ala. Both men have been playing the Southern Association in batting this season.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians today announced the purchase of three minor league stars who will report to the team in 1932. They are Bruce Connatter, first baseman, and Jack Ward, center fielder, both with New Orleans of the Southern Association; and Charlie Reddock, right-handed pitcher who has won 11 games and lost four for Detroit in the Three-Eye League.

Loughran To Meet Sekyra September 22

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—(UP)—Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, will risk his standing as a leading contender for heavyweight honors in a 10-round bout with Joe Sekyra, of Dayton, Ohio, at Queensboro stadium September 22. Sekyra, once regarded as a brilliant young prospect, had slumped to "trial horse" classification, but returned to prominence Tuesday with a brilliant victory over Charley Retzlaff, youthful heavyweight sensation. His fine showing against Retzlaff has started the Chicago on a "comeback" attempt, and he showed no hesitancy in signing for the Loughran bout when offered a contract today.

Loughran had not signed, but accepted terms by wire and told Matchmaker Al Weil that he would come to New York to sign.

GAS TAX DISTRIBUTION IS HALTED IN FLORIDA

Temporary Injunction Restrains State Operation of New Law.

QUINCY, Fla., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Circuit Judge E. C. Love today granted a temporary injunction restraining state officials from distributing to counties 3 cents gasoline tax provided for them under the 1931 law.

The injunction was asked by John E. Mathews, Duval county legislator, who claimed the method of distribution to counties was unconstitutional.

Judge Love's order merely granted the temporary injunction and did not pass on the validity of the act.

Mathews specifically attacked what is known as the "second gas tax" of the 6-cent act adopted by the last legislature, providing for distribution to counties on the basis of area, population and money spent in construction of state roads. He did not question the other 3 cents, which goes to the state highway department, nor did he attack the measure which levied a seventh cent tax for the general revenue fund.

LITTLE COUNTIES TO TAKE CASE TO SUPREME COURT

AVON PARK, Fla., Sept. 4.—(AP) D. Graham Copeland, chairman of the little counties steering committee, favoring distribution of state gasoline tax monies on the basis set out in the 1931 law, said today the ruling granting an injunction against enforcement of the distribution clause would be carried to the United States supreme court if necessary.

Culbertson on Contract

BY ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

Finesses a Last Resort

"Too bad, partner, we're down one but both the finesses lost." How often you hear that remark at the Contract table and at least 50 per cent of the time the losing finesses need not have been taken. The play of the hand could have been so planned as to eliminate the element of luck, which is such a tremendous factor in the taking of finesses, and the lead placed in such a way that an opponent would have relieved the declarer of the necessity of taking a chance.

I do not mean to be understood as saying that finesses are never necessary. Of course they are. But there are many hands in which needless finesses are taken and as a result of what appears to be an unfortunate lay of the cards, the Declarer loses a contract which could have been made by accurate play.

Take the hand below:

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

♠ 9 5 4 3
♥ 7 6 4 3
♦ 10 9 8 5 3
♣ J 2

♠ J 10 7 2
♥ A K Q 8
♦ A K 8 7 3
♣ A K Q 10 7 3

The Bidding:
(The figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South West North East
♠ 2♠ (1) Pass 3♠ (2)
♥ Pass (3) 4♥ (4) Pass Pass

1—West's hand is a beautiful example of a hand fitted for the Jump Overcall, which shows another bid in the hand and more than 3 honor-tricks.

2—West was extremely fortunate in finding a partner having not only adequate support for his bid suit but also a trick and a half in addition.

3—With a passing partner South cannot safely bid further. He may be compelled to lead both hearts and diamonds from his own hand, resulting in a penalty of from 2 to 3 tricks and it is by no means certain that West can score game.

4—Holding apparently 8 playing-tricks, West's bid of four spades is fully justified.

North opened the club Knave in response to his partner's bid. He did not heed the warning implied in South's play of the trey and used the suit. This trick South won and led another round, the Declarer trumping with an honor. Two rounds of spades picked up the adverse trumps and then the Ace and King of diamonds were cashed. A small spade was then led to the Dummy and the closed hand, led and trumped in the closed hand.

The stage was now set for the making of the contract, regardless of the lie of the heart suit. West now led a small heart and the right spot was finessed in the Dummy. This trick was won by South but he was absolutely helpless. To lead a club permits the closed hand to discard his losing heart and trump in the Dummy. A heart lead must give the remaining tricks to the Declarer. Had this hand been played on the basis of the taking of finesses, the contract must be defeated 1 trick and had not both clubs and diamonds been eliminated before the one needed finesse was taken, the same result would have followed.

The hand also contains a suggestion.

Kansas will retaliate by forcing Oklahoma truck drivers to purchase Arkansas licenses when driving in this state.

tion for accurate defensive play. Had North, after holding the first club trick with the Knave, shifted and led through Dummy's strength, its emphatically suggested by South, the contract could have been made. There was only one holding, namely K J x, that would make the heart lead advantageous and North should have visioned those cards in his partner's hand. The hope that he could cash one of his spades on the third round of clubs caused North to disregard the warning play of the small club and thus afforded West an opportunity to make his game.

TODAY'S POINTER.

In making a lead, remember, that a single honor with one or more cards or a combination of honors not in sequence is said to be in tenace position. In such cases a waiting lead is made with a Doubtless, a Singleton or a Trump. In order to preserve such tenace positions when the lead shows a short suit, partner must as a rule assume a Doubtless rather than a Singleton and abstain from returning the initial lead. With an Ace, a King or honors not in sequence in one or two suits and a worthless Doubtless or a Singleton in the third suit, lead the short suit.

TWITCHTAIL BECOMES SUSPICIOUS.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Suspicion is to always find. Destructive is to peace of mind. —Twitchtail the Squirrel.

Twitchtail the Ground Squirrel felt uneasy. Just why he felt uneasy he didn't know himself. It was just a feeling that something was wrong; that some unknown danger threatened.

No new enemies had appeared and the old ones were no more active than usual. Now that Elly the Terrier ignored him he had one less to worry about than before. Just the same he was uneasy. He soon found that Mrs. Twitchtail had much the same feeling. He would find her leaving her house, hold cards to run to the door and peer out with an anxious look on her face.

"What is it, my dear?" he asked.

Mrs. Twitchtail appeared not to be listening. She was watching some men going through the wheat field and through the orchard and among the trees over on the hillside where she used to live. They seemed to be very busy about something. Presently one came toward them. At once Twitchtail and Mrs. Twitchtail scampered inside their home. Later when they ventured out the man was nowhere to be seen.

However, he was soon forgotten in the discovery of something that made their eyes shine. It was a spoonful of two of barley just outside their doorway, and if there is anything better than barley, it was that which they discovered it. It was Mrs. Twitchtail who first saw it. "Oh see what has been left right at our very door!" she cried and she turned to her husband.

"Don't touch a grain of it," he commanded. "I'm not going to and don't you. It may be all right. It smells all right. Still I have that queer feeling of some unknown danger stronger than ever. The two-legged creature must have left this here. If he did, what did he do for? I notice that he left some at the homes of some of our neighbors and it is the first time I have ever known one of those two-legged creatures to go out of his way to feed us. Let us wait and see what happens. It isn't going to run away and if it is all right we can eat it later."

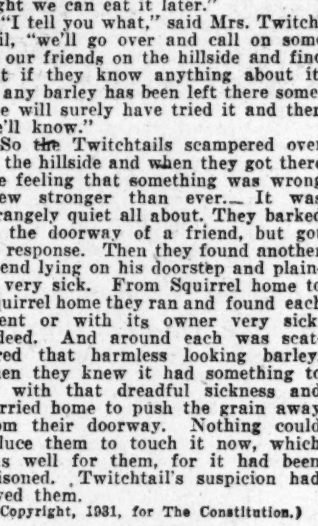

"I tell you what," said Mrs. Twitchtail, "we'll go over and call on some of our friends on the hillside and find out if they know anything about it. If any barley has been left there someone will surely have tried it and then we'll know."

So the Twitchtails scampered over to the hillside and when they got there the feeling that something was wrong grew stronger than ever. It was strangely quiet all about. They barked at the doorway of a friend, but got no response. Then they found another friend lying on his doorstep and plainly very sick. From Squirrel home they ran and found each silent or with its owner very sick, indeed. And around each was scattered that dreadful sickness and hurried home to push the grain away from their doorway. Nothing could induce them to touch it now, which was well for them, for it had been poisoned. Twitchtail's suspicion had saved them.

Life Makes Protean Actors of Us All.

In the parlance of the theater, the protean actor is one who takes several parts in the same play. If he be a first-rate performer he lives and breathes each part so perfectly that the audience forgets he is acting. If perchance that audience remembers for a split second that he is a player his acting is a failure. This, then, is the test of his art and of his real ability to make it live and breathe; that he should forget himself and make his audience forget him. I wonder if Life doesn't make protean actors of us all, from the cradle to the grave?

In childhood the play-acting begins. A little boy was reprimanded by his mother for a display of bad table manners. Said she: "Son, when you go out to spend the day with my friends do you eat your dinner with your fingers and wipe your greasy hands on your trousers?"

"No," he replied. "I know where to use my manners." No doubt he did and that instinct to play the part that is expected of him will stand him in good stead later on. There is many a child who is uncontrolled at home who is quick to recognize in the school room the voice of authority, when his teacher speaks to him, and he is equally quick to obey.

That same youth may grow into a pleasure-loving irresponsible man who takes life as a roisterous comedy. He works just hard enough to supply the funds for his fun; that being the chief end and aim of life, he sets about to spend it. But one day he has the unexpected and sobering experience of falling in love. He gets married and he has children. Now see him rub off the grease paint of his clown part. See him change his motley. He is a husband and a father, with all the responsibilities of those high offices. He puts by his frivolities, he becomes the serious-minded citizen that you pass on the street, and bow to in the pew. He is regarded with respect wherever he goes. Underneath he is the same light-hearted creature of former years but Life has called him to a new part.

When the last act of the earthly drama ends we cease to be friends, husbands, wives, sweethearts. We feel no surge of the old familiar emotions, love, hate, fear and vindictiveness. We are consumed with a greedy pity and we are duty-driven to use the last ounce of our strength to alleviate the suffering before our eyes.

And so the curtain falls.

BISHOPS CHALLENGED ON CAMPAIGN ACTIVITY

Rev. Rembert G. Smith Hurls New Charges at Mouzon and Dubose.

Two bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Friday were challenged to explain alleged raising and expenditure of funds in the presidential campaign of 1928 by Rev. Rembert G. Smith, of Sparta, Ga., who charged that the prelates failed to report their financial activities in a campaign as required by law.

The bishops, E. D. Mouzon, of North Carolina, and H. M. Dubose, of Tennessee, were named in Rev. Smith's statement reiterating his recent charge that Bishop Dubose was named by Dr. Clarence True Wilson, temperance leader, as having handled funds in the 1928 presidential campaign. The Smith statement followed dispatches from Nashville in which Dr. Wilson was reported as having telegraphed Bishop Dubose that there was "no foundation for Smith statement" that Wilson had referred to the Tennessee bishop's campaign activities.

INSTALLMENT VI.

"I'm sorry, but I really don't think I can let you," said the woman, putting up her hand against the case of the door as if she were afraid Fabia would force her way in. "I'm the doctor's wife, you see, and he wouldn't like it if, when he came home all tired out from taking care of sick people, I told him there was somebody in here with a sick dog."

"All right, I won't come in, then. I'll sit out here and wait for him," said Fabia.

The woman looked her disapproval. "You don't mind my sitting on your front steps, do you?"

"Well, my husband isn't a veterinary," the woman reiterated. "And who are you, anyway?"

"My name is Vale," said Fabia. "Vale? What Vale?" The woman stopped, the color suddenly mounting to her face. "You don't mean to say you're one of the Vales?"

"I'm Fabia."

"Well, why didn't you say so?" She would have had she known it would have been any advantage to Thad.

"You come right in," the doctor's wife went on, stepping back, and pulling the door open wide. "You must excuse me! I had no idea. You come right in, and we'll lay your little dog down on the couch and make him comfortable."

Never before had being a Vale seemed so precious to Fabia as now. "But I'll keep Thad right in my arms, I think," she said as she crossed the threshold. There was a row of chairs in the hall for waiting patients evidently. "I'll just sit here. This is all right. Don't bother, please."

For the woman was struggling with sliding doors that opened into a room at the right. Suddenly she stopped and observed Fabia closely. "Did you say you were Fabia Vale?"

"Yes."

"There aren't two, are there?"

"Not that I know of."

"Well, haven't I been reading in the papers lately about Miss Fabia Vale having her coming-out party tonight?"

"Why, yes, I guess you have! I'd forgotten. If you don't mind, perhaps you'd better telephone to my mother. She may be worried."

Every window in the Vale house was aglow when Fabia drove up to it 20 minutes later, as well as all the lanterns on both sides of the curving drive. Fabia's gaze was fastened upon Thad, whose breathing had become difficult.

The front door was immediately opened from the inside. They had been watching for her evidently. There was an atmosphere of tense suppression when she entered the brilliantly lighted hall. Grandmother Vale was enthroned in one of the Jacobean armchairs under the Sargent portrait. She was as dazzling as onyx in her stiff black velvet and white lace. On one side of her stood Aunt Charlotte, who seldom separated from Grandmother Vale; and on the other, Jane, lovely in black and white. By the newel-post stood her father, immaculate in black and white. Hovering around the edges of this group, Fabia was aware of Nicholas and Mr. Firth, also in immaculate black and white; and finally she saw her mother, bareheaded and barenecked, dressed in something gold and shining, coming toward her.

"Oh, Fabia!" her mother exclaimed. "Are you hurt, too?"

"No, it's just 'the blood,'" replied Fabia. She hadn't any idea how shocking she looked amidst all the contrasting elegance. "Has the doctor come?"

"Not yet," said her mother, "but I've telephoned. We've been terribly worried about you, dear. Poor Thad! Shall I take him?" And she held out her lovely bare arms.

"He'll get you all dirty," warned Fabia.

"Then I'll change," said Lisa instantly, and she took Thad into her arms as unhesitatingly as if he had been Fabia.

Forever Fabia blessed her mother for that act, and the eyes of Barry Firth, looking on from a distance, were suddenly blurred.

"I have a place all ready for him downstairs in the warm corner of the laundry," her mother said, "where he like to lie, and Joe is going to stay with him until the doctor comes. I'll take him down myself. You go upstairs and I'll be right up, dear." She smiled, and went out with Thad.

"We won't hear about it now," her father interrupted curtly. She recognized that voice, that posture, too, so upright and unbending, with hands clasped behind his back. He was flushed now, and his mustache was twitching.

Sometimes Fabia wished her father was less imposing in appearance. It seemed to her it would be easier to show affection to a little man—somebody bald, or lined, or stooped. There had never been any demonstration of affection between Fabia and her father except the required Vale kisses of goodnight or of parting and greeting before and after long absences. Queer how that voice and that posture of her father's always frightened Fabia. She was aware that one of her legs was trembling.

"Do you know what time it is?" her father demanded.

"No, what time is it?" she replied, putting her weight equally on both feet so as to stop the quivering.

"It's after eight, and your dinner-guests are invited for eight-thirty."

"Well, everything is ready, isn't it?"

"Are you ready?"

"Me? Why, father, you don't expect me to go to any party tonight, do you?"

"I don't expect you to go to your own coming-out party? What do you mean?"

"I mean I'm going to stay with Thad, of course."

"You're going to do no such thing. You're going to go upstairs immediately and make yourself presentable for your guests."

"Father, you don't understand—I'm afraid Thad isn't going to get well."

Her voice came to a sudden stop. Every one was aware that she was on the verge of tears, and felt a much discomfort at it if she were about to commit some shocking mistake in good taste. Vales never wept except in private.

"Well, whether he gets well or not has nothing to do with what you do tonight," her father replied.

Fabia made a terrific effort at self-control, and succeeded. Her voice hardly trembled when she replied, and no tears fell. "I can't go to any party tonight, father," she announced quietly.

"Your father's flush deepened. 'Of course you can.'"

"No, father, I can't."

Her father's eyes narrowed. "I say you can and you will."

Fabia's eyes narrowed, too. "And I say I can't and I—"

Before the fatal "won't" was out, Grandmother Vale's voice leaped between them, though she didn't know but that they had met with a serious accident.

"Oh, but if I'd really been run over like Thad, then mother wouldn't see it through, then—"

"We won't discuss this," her father cut in; "your guests will be here at any moment now."

"Father," Fabia replied, wondering at her own courage—she had never resisted him before—"you can't seriously be asking me to leave Thad alone when I think he's dying, to go to a silly, unimportant party that's just for the sake of society?"

"It isn't just for the sake of society," Grandmother Vale flashed. "Where did you pick up that vulgar phrase?"

"Well, then, what is it for?" I never wanted a coming-out party."

"It's a form—a ceremony your mother and father are observing as members—as leaders, in a civilized community—and it's important for you to play your role in it as well as you can."

"But Thad's dying."

"Your sitting beside him can't prevent it."

BY JOHN L. COOLEY.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Wall Street went home for a three-day holiday today, leaving the security markets in a state of mild unsettlement.

Numerous principal stocks were about steady, but utility, merchandising and food issues became tired and irregularly lower prices prevailed at the close.

Activity diminished to 1,200,762 shares, nearly a million less than yesterday.

United States Steel made a new low recovered its loss and ended the day with a gain of 1/4 off.

Changes in Bethlehem, American International, General Motors, Chrysler, Sears-Roebuck, and others were small, with the latter two showing a slight advance.

Bonds had much to contend with in the continued selling of low coupon railroad bonds and also renewed weakness of foreign groups.

Wheat closed firm, 1/8 to 1/16 higher. Corn's gains were approximately the same.

A few more private estimates on the cotton crop had little effect on the market for that staple, although the quotations represented losses of 9 to 11 points.

The official government report on the Berlin stock market was much steadier, although London sagged.

Sterling closed unchanged after a small recession attributed to the absence of demand.

TARZAN AT THE EARTH'S CORE No. 84

Locking his toes beneath the elbows of the Goror as he had seen the Horiba do, Tarzan strode the hideous creature as he was carried swiftly in its mad rush to overtake its fellows. The ape-man acted on a sudden thought. This seemed the only means whereby he might hope to overtake the Horib who was bearing away the Red Flower of Zoram. Still terrified and excited by the battle, the Goror darted in and out among the trees with incredible swiftness.
